● ABOUT ME

My passion lies in comprehending the diverse aspects of society, including cultural similarities and differences, and the various hues of Bharat. As a lifelong learner, I am constantly striving to build my academic foundation and to stay up-to-date with both national and international news and issues, while remaining attuned to human needs. I am particularly interested in understanding geopolitics, the democratic clash, resource geography, and the interplay between religionism and humanism, as well as the application of constitutional laws in public sphere. additionally i have taken a keen interest in drafting and research. I am hodophile and poet. I enjoy quizzing and uncovering new facts. and i am currently preparing for civil services and state services examinations. As a result, I am highly engaged in research work and able to provide support to training programs. Lastly my strong motivation for international affairs drives my pursuits.
