Projects

- China's political economy. A group research project about analysing china's political economy & governance.
group research head

Publication

- India's geopolitical dilemma (AGORA annual departmental magazine) political science society publisher. My article was about India - china relations in the 21st century & the geopolitical choices & dilemma that it faces given the context that India- china are both locked in border conflict & China has used the string of pearls strategy to cover the Indian Ocean region. The article talks about the situation, the challenges it has & the way ahead. I had researched through various newspapers sources & media outlets, analysed the information & then put up the content in my thoroughly written article.
- The poll year 2024 & what it holds for India (NITI Tantra a public policy think tank) During my course of internship i wrote an paper on international relations on the upcoming elections in major democracies including India . About it's impact on India's foreign & security policy & also on the global front. The paper analyses the impact of elections & it's fallout in other parameters of countries domestic & foregin relations .My paper got published on NITI tantra's website.
